PASSPORT AND SANITARY DOCUMENTATION

Pets must have their corresponding sanitary documentation when the authorities ask for them.

- Pets must have their vaccines against rabies and should be identified by a chip or tattoo. This should be complied with in accordance to the IDO 11784 law. There are many organizations where you can register the electronic number. This will make it easier to find your pet in case of loss.
- The new UE passport of 2 parts. One part has the general information of your pet, name, vaccines, medical treatments, if it has, and general medical information. The other part can be compiled by the editor.
- Pets under three months of age don't have to be vaccinated, but the owner, but the owner of the pet must prove that the little pet has lived in the same place since it was born and that it hasn't been in contact with other animals which could carry rabies. Your vet can inform you on how to get this document. The puppy can also cross the frontier if it is accompanied by its mother and if it is still dependant on her. Each member country has the right to deny the entry to a puppy, especially in countries such as England, Ireland and Sweden. It will probably be difficult or impossible for your puppy to enter.
